

Emotional support through hematological cancer treatment

Emotional support and access to resources are crucial for patients following a cancer diagnosis. Connecting to support resources helps with increasing resilience and strength as you navigate your diagnosis and treatment. Access to emotional support can help reduce anxiety and depression, improve your quality of life and assist you as you build a community for yourself. Utilizing these resources provides patients with a comprehensive foundation of care.

Baptist MD Anderson Cancer Center resources

As a patient at Baptist MD Anderson, you have access to the following resources to help support you through your cancer experience:

• Baptist Behavioral Health

The psychologists at Baptist MD Anderson focus on oncology care and helping patients address the psychological, social, emotional and behavioral aspects of cancer. They recognize that cancer patients and their families face unique emotional and psychological challenges and aim to provide them with comprehensive care beyond the physical aspects of the disease.

How to connect: Ask your medical team to place a referral to Baptist MD Anderson's psychology team or contact the behavioral health team directly at 904.376.3800 to request an appointment.

• Social Services

Oncology social work is a specialized field that provides support to cancer patients and their families by addressing the emotional, social and practical challenges encountered during the cancer journey. Oncology social workers are vital members of the cancer care team, assisting patients in navigating the complexities of cancer treatment, managing emotional and psychological stress and accessing necessary resources for their well-being.

How to connect: Ask your medical team to place a referral to Baptist MD Anderson's social services team or contact the social services department at 904.202.7315.

• Support groups

Cancer support groups provide a space where people affected by cancer—patients, survivors, caregivers and loved ones—can share their experiences, emotions and practical advice in a supportive environment. These groups provide social, emotional and sometimes educational support, helping members navigate the cancer journey together.
